

2025-26 GRADUATE CATALOG

This Catalog provides detailed information for current and prospective students about graduate programs at Penn including PhD, research master's, professional master's, and other professional degrees. It also provides information about important policies and resources for graduate students and courses at all levels of study.

This Catalog is intended to provide general information about the University of Pennsylvania and is accurate as of May 2025. The University reserves the right to change, modify, or correct any information contained herein without prior notice, at any time.

Email your feedback and questions here (curriculum@registrar.upenn.edu).