

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES, MA

International MBA Elective	1.5
Total Course Units	14

This degree is available ONLY to students in the Lauder Institute of Management & International Studies.

Lauder MA courses integrate knowledge across international economics, comparative politics, sociology, anthropology, history, language, culture, and more. Out of the classroom, students will participate in required immersion (<https://lauder.wharton.upenn.edu/immersion/>) experiences which engage students in hands-on learning in their Program of Concentration. Every Lauder graduate is expected to gain superior proficiency in at least one language (<https://lauder.wharton.upenn.edu/coursework/languages/>) other than English.

The interdisciplinary knowledge, intercultural fluency, and language ability that Lauder students acquire over 24 months for careers and endeavors across different countries and industries. A Lauder MA degree in International Studies enhances a business leader's ability to understand regional and global issues and to navigate cultural differences. Ultimately, it drives the success of our alumni (<https://lauder.wharton.upenn.edu/the-alumni/>) in life after Lauder.
