Welcome to the University of Pennsylvania Catalog

This Catalog provides detailed information for current and prospective students about traditional undergraduate, PhD, and research master's programs at Penn as well as important academic policies and resources. It also provides information about courses at all levels of study. Future Catalogs will provide additional information about professional and non-traditional undergraduate programs.

Students interested in non-credit and continuing education may visit this webpage (http://www.upenn.edu/programs/lifelong).

This Catalog is intended to provide general information about the University of Pennsylvania and is accurate as of May 2018. The University reserves the right to change, modify, or correct any information contained herein without prior notice, at any time.
