

SUMMER SESSIONS

Penn Summer (<http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer>) offers a wide variety of summer programs to current Penn students, with more than 300 classes available during the day or evening.

Current Penn students are encouraged to take advantage of advising resources during the summer term in the same manner as during the fall and spring. Before enrolling in summer courses, students should consult with their academic advisor (<http://catalog.upenn.edu/undergraduate/academic-resources/advising>) regarding their intended coursework to ensure adequate degree progress.

Penn Summer On-Campus

There are three academic sessions during Penn Summer On-Campus (<http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/on-campus>), and more than 300 courses are offered from academic departments across the university. Flexible day and evening classes are offered to fit students' schedule and needs.

For more information, visit: <http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/on-campus>.

Penn Summer Online

Not going to be in Philadelphia this summer? Consider taking one of Penn's Summer Online (<http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/online>) courses. Online courses allow students to earn credit as they participate in real-time with their Penn instructor and peers while having 24/7 access to their virtual learning materials.

For more information, visit: <http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/online>.

Penn Summer Abroad

Students can earn Penn credit as they experience culture in another country with Penn Summer Abroad (<http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/abroad>). Students travel with Penn faculty and other undergraduates with accommodations and excursions planned for them, enjoying the flexibility of a short-term commitment and make the most of their summer break.

For more information, visit: <http://www.sas.upenn.edu/summer/programs/abroad>.