

MUSIC: MUSIC, MINOR

There are two paths of study for the Music minor. One flexible path allows students to draw together five courses on a wide array of topics in History, Theory, and Ethnomusicology. The other path is the Interdisciplinary minor in Jazz and Popular music studies, which is intended for students who wish to integrate their interest in music in the contemporary world and in academically-based community service as a form of learning. This minor is also for music majors who wish to include knowledge of jazz and popular music performance into their degrees.
