

THE WHARTON SCHOOL

In 1881, American entrepreneur and industrialist Joseph Wharton established the world's first collegiate school of business at the University of Pennsylvania.

Wharton's pioneering vision was to produce graduates who would become "pillars of the state, whether in private or in public life." The Wharton School maintains a long tradition of educating visionary business leaders in academia, business, government, and not-for-profit organizations.

Today, Wharton has expanded the scope of this vision to become the most comprehensive source of business knowledge in the world – with over 225 faculty members, 95,000 alumni, 5,000 students across 10 academic departments, 20 research centers, and more than 9,000 executive education participants annually.

Founded in 1881 as the first collegiate business school, the Wharton School (<https://www.wharton.upenn.edu>) of the University of Pennsylvania is recognized globally for intellectual leadership and ongoing innovation across every major discipline of business education. With a broad global community and one of the most published business school faculties, Wharton creates economic and social value around the world. The School has 5,000 undergraduate (<https://undergrad.wharton.upenn.edu>), MBA (<https://mba.wharton.upenn.edu>), executive MBA (<https://executivemba.wharton.upenn.edu>), and doctoral (<https://doctoral.wharton.upenn.edu>) students; more than 9,000 participants in executive education (<http://executiveeducation.wharton.upenn.edu>) programs annually and a powerful alumni network (<https://alumni.wharton.upenn.edu>) of 95,000 graduates.

Research provides an individualized method of learning and an in-depth treatment of a topic of personal interest with input from a faculty expert. Research experience is helpful if applying for distinguished international fellowships and is important if going on to graduate studies in an analytical discipline. Research skills are useful for decision-making in the private and public sectors and are required in academic positions. Below you can find a variety of research opportunities and scholarship programs.

- Courses (<https://undergrad-inside.wharton.upenn.edu/research/courses>)—Create "tools" in a research-methods course.
